ROBBERS AND GAMBLERS.

Dangers of Jackson City-Robberles Recently Reported. Officers of Alexandria county made a raid in Another form of robbery, other than gambling, has been indulged in about this gambling resort, and complaint is made that it is unsafe for the farmers to pass through there at night on their way to market.

HELD UP IN THE VILLAGE. Only a few nights ago Mr. Crane, a gardener living near Four-mile run, was attacked near the bridge while on his way to market. The robbers, evidently thinking he had an empty purse on his way to the city, contented themselves with some of the marketing in the wagon. Two days later an attempt was made to "hold up" the Virginian while driving through the Smithsonian grounds, and this time the robbers did not get anything. A NEW YOKDER'S EXPERIENCE.

John Farrell, a New Yorker who went to Jackson City to beat the bookmakers Saturday, hrd an unpleasant experience. He lost considerable money there and would have returned home in a cab in which he went over had he not been "held up" on the bridge. For that reason he waited until morning, thinking he could then make his escape from the village in safety. An early start was for home and a nicely dressed man who was coming in the direction of the city came along to keep him company. Farrell had $18 reserve money in his pecket, and just as he approached the bridge the stranger knocked him down. The New Yorker was rendered unconscious, and when he regained his senses he went to the Emergency Hospital for treatment and there he discovered that he had not a cent in his pocket. He had been robbed.

HIGHWAY ROBBERS IN THE CITY. While robbers are hanging about Jackson City some of them are also on this side of the church the committee reported an answer of the river. One person who was given a demonstration of this fact Saturday night was demonstration of this fact Saturday night was tick now afforded, found expression last week .64c in the verdict of a coroner's jury, .64c of which Mr. John T. Beckham .29c was foreman. The jurors declared that railway gates such as are in use in Washington are essential to the safety of the public here. The city council some years ago made a movement to require these gates, but a compromise was made and the put-ting up of watch boxes and the ap-pointment of watchmen was accepted as a substitute. The trouble is, however, that a watch-man cannot throw himself full length before an advancing wagon as a railroad gate does. A watchman is too short to reach the sixty-six feet men be taken at their own estimation of their loftiness there is no man in Alexandria over tial. The demand for them is universal here. He made no attempt at cratory in delivering his argument, but read it from manuscript, seeking only to timony was irregularly adv read it so it could be plainly heard.

The Morning Session. The commissioners in attendance upon the essions of the general assembly at the New York Avenue Church were prompt in assembling this morning. Refreshed by the Sabbath rest the delegates entered upon the second week of the assembly with a good leaf of spirit. In anticipation of the debate on the Briggs case the pressure for admission to the church on the part of those not members of the as-sembly was very great, and long before 9 o'clock the galleries were crowded. The half hour devotional exercises were conducted by Prof. John M. Cogner of the Los Angeles presbytery, California, and at the close Moderator Craig took the chair and, as is his custom, offered a brief invocation. Routine Business Transacted.

"So as not to break in upon or interfere with Dr. Lampe's opening argument, I will now cite as briefly as possible the authorities and so much of the record as will be used by the appellants in their argument to support the appeal and the specification of errors alleged."

Here Col. McCook went on to give in detail the references to the passages cited as containing matter relevant to the case. These passages were in Dr. Briggs writings as well as in the official records of the case, the original charges and specifications, the famous inaugural address, minutes of the presbytery, &c. Continuing, he said:

"I shall not take the time of the court to read any of these citations at this time, but they may be read and will be referred to from time to time during the argument. In this way the appellants hope or expect to use but little more

Upon the conclusion of Col. McCook's address, which was in the nature of a statement of the course to be pursued by the prosecution, Rev. Joseph J. Lampe, D.D., of the prosecuting committee then took the floor and made the argument.

Dr. Lampe's Argument.

Dr. Lampe said: In accordance with section

"Martineau could not find divine authority in the church or the Bible, but he did find God enthroned in his own soul." (Inaugural, p. 27.)

To him and the rationalists, the reason is the Holy of Holies of human nature, in which God presents imself to those who seek Him. (p. 26.) And, therefore, although it is well known that they reject the Scriptures as the authoritative proclamation of the will of God and the way of salvation through the mediation and sacrifice of salvation through the mediation and sacrifice of the Son of God as revealed therein, Dr. Briggs, the Son of God as revealed therein, Dr. Briggs, nevertheless, would not "refuse these rationalists a place in the company of the faithful." (p. 27.)

That Dr. Briggs conceives of each one of the three fountains of divine authority as capable of imparting a saving knowledge of God is evident from hisown statements on the subject. He says: "Unless God's authority is discerned in the forms of the reason, there is no ground upon which any of the heathen could ever have been saved, for they know nothing of Bible or church. If they are not savingly enlightened church. If they are not savingly enlightened by the light of the world in the forms of the reason the whole heathen world is lost for-ever." (Inaug., 2d ed., pp. 88, 89.) The divine authority in the reason therefore does savingly enlighten in the view of Dr. Briggs.
